

Manager, OB -Maternity

Huntington Hospital, in Pasadena, CA, has an excellent opportunity for a Clinical Department Manager to join our OB-Maternity Care team. This position will allow you to immerse yourself within a fully supportive and collaborative environment, and to work with your staff to create a truly energetic culture. In addition to professional and personal growth, you will also experience unique opportunities to make a difference in patient care.

As a Clinical Department Manager who is truly vested in the success of our patients, you will:

Direct departmental activities by planning, analyzing, developing and implementing departmental programs, products, services and/or strategies that when integrated with overall hospital goals, ensure favorable hospital operating results

Oversee and integrate external and multi-departmental services by participating in and maintaining documentation of medical staff committees, infection control, disaster planning, risk management quality control and other activities and projects

Plan, organize and measure the work of subordinate departmental staff by frequent interaction/contact with departmental employees pertaining to all work activities

Create and maintain budgets of staff, salaries, equipment, supplies and facilities by analyzing departmental needs in order to meet both departmental and hospital goals

Exceptional candidates will possess:

Bachelor's degree in Nursing from an accredited nursing program required

Five years of related experience in area or clinical specialty

Current active Registered Nurse license issued by the State of California

Current American Heart Association BLS Course C. and NRP Required

An Extraordinary Experience in an Extraordinary Setting

Huntington Hospital is a 636-bed non-profit regional medical center as renowned for our commitment to compassionate care as we are recognized for excellence in over 90 service areas. As the only Level II Trauma Center and Level III NICU in our region, Huntington Hospital continues to stand as an impressive reminder of the leading-edge care we provided to the community.

We invite you to learn more about our organization, our benefits and this exciting opportunity at hrcareers.com

We value diversity in our workforce.

EOE

Careers at a Higher Level